EDITORIAL

The COVID 19 pandemic has magnified every existing inequality in our society- like systematic racism, gender inequality and poverty. People who live in deprived areas had higher diagnosis rates and death rates than those living in less deprived areas. The college is committed to stand by people in need, helped them in the critical time with a hope that good days will come. The faculty members of every department shared study materials with students attended the classes on different digital platforms with a hope that the darkness that shadowed our life will evaporate very soon. The college organized awareness programme on Corona Pandemic to create awareness among students. The college played the role of avant-garde and was able to fight back with corona positing from the front by extending help to people 'the other'. This proved our commitment to people and society. This period left us with a message that we are the guest of the planet earth. Prayas tries to record all the events organized in and outside of the college. Some events may be left out due to our ignorance. But they were equally prominent. In this juncture we believe that everything, but nothing is precious. But in this temporal time of existence- everything is mixed with void; which is majestically present. I am indebted to all stakeholders for their active cooperation in regard of supplying the required photos and necessary information while preparing the newsletter.
